BRITISH POLITICS.

Parnell Checkmates Ex-Premier Gladstone.

CONSERVATIVES WAKING UP.

A Remarkable Campaign Manifesto—The Bulgarian Trouble—Dissension in the Reichstag.

British Politics.

LONDON, November 21.—The Irish question is again uppermost in British politics. Parnell has been cleverer than Gladstone, and has got "Home Rule" to the front to the apparent disadvantage of the Liberals. The ex-Premier, when he found his radical allies were jeopardizing his canvass by the prominence they gave to the disestablishment question, made overtures to the Parnellites for a coalition. The Irish party had been courted so well and eagerly by the Conservatives, that the people had generally concluded that an understanding had been arranged between them; but such, it now transpires, was not the fact. Parnell had secured all the promises he desired from the Tories. He used this fact to induce the Liberals to offer him the same pledges. He preferred to trade with the Liberal leaders to trading with those of the Conservative party, because the former were in much better control of their party than were the Tory chiefs; but Gladstone, for reasons best known to himself, decided to make the same pledges which the Conservatives had made, and offered a very evasive compromise. Parnell thereupon decided to seal the alliance with the Tories. He felt himself master of the situation. He calculates upon the certain possession of the balance of power in the next session, and feels sure of being able to command enough Radical votes upon most of the questions relating to home rule, which may come up to give his side of the House power to pass all reasonable measures relating to Ireland. It was these considerations which induced the National League, to-day, to issue its remarkable campaign manifesto. The decision to issue it was arrived at in a special meeting held by Parnell and his colleagues in Dublin. There were present at this convocation all the Irish Home Rule candidates who could possibly attend. The call for the meeting stated that its object was to have a final conference upon the plans for the electoral work. The manifesto, which was issued by the Parnellites, was uttered, its effect, according to Irish calculations, will be to prevent Gladstone from returning to power, by making it impossible for the Liberals to gain a requisite majority of members in the next House of Commons. The Conservatives have declared that they will not resign the conduct of the government unless the Liberals gain such a large majority in the next House as to show an unmistakable wish for a change of Cabinet. While it can be hardly doubted that Gladstone will win in the elections, most of the well-informed English politicians believe the present relations between the Home-Rulers and Tories will render it practically impossible for the Liberals to succeed in obtaining the majority of members requisite to compel the Conservatives to abdicate.

The Dublin conference arranged to thoroughly circulate the Parnell manifesto during the next fortnight, even to the extent of distributing it at all the church doors throughout Ireland. It was also arranged to have the country thoroughly stumped and to furnish a plentiful supply of speakers wherever meetings could be organized for them. In addition, the conference decided to transfer the headquarters of the executive committee of the English branch of the National League to Liverpool for the remainder of the campaign. This locality was selected as the most available for easy communication with the League branches throughout England and Scotland.

T. P. O'Connor, President of British branch of the League, will, however, remain in London, whence he will direct the Irish campaign throughout Great Britain.

The Parnell manifesto has infused new life into the conservative party management. Lord Randolph Churchill, Indian Secretary, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and W. H. Smith, War Secretary, are devoting their entire energies to the Tory campaign work. To-day they issued an urgent appeal to all those London Conservative electors who usually spend November out of town, to return, if possible, at once to the Metropolis, and take part in the important campaign work before them in their respective districts.

The ministers of all the Powers represented at Athens have renewed their advice to Greece to refrain from taking any action in relation to the trouble between Bulgaria and Serbia, that may complicate the situation as it now exists. Turkey has stationed 15,000 troops at a fortified point on the Greek frontier. These troops have, however, been strictly enjoined to abstain from giving any annoyance to the Greeks. Despite this injunction, it is feared that the presence of Turkish soldiers on the frontier will eventually result in a collision. The demand of the Porte, that the Greek consul at Crete be recalled, because he interested himself in inciting the Cretans to rebel against the Turkish authority in the island, has been refused, on the ground that the group of charges is untrue. Turkey has, on this account, instructed Sava Zaima, Turkish Governor of Crete, to discontinue all official intercourse with the Greek consul.

The centre party in the German Reichstag is much dissatisfied with the government's recent explanation that it would tolerate the Catholic missions in the German colonies. The centre's accused Prince Bismarck of evading the religious question involved, and intend to vote solidly against all the credits asked for by government for its colonial enterprise, the naval budget, unless the unconditional equality of the Catholic missions, with those under the Protestant auspices, is guaranteed beforehand.

The War.

BELOGRADE, November 21.—Intense excitement prevails here owing to the report that Col. Topolovitch cut off the retreat of the Bulgarians from Slivnitsa, while Col. Bontzyk, with the Shumadia division, entered Sofia unopposed.

LONDON, November 21.—Advices from Taurisbroad state that Colonel Bontzyk and Topolovitch yesterday expected to attack upon the Bulgarians at Slivnitsa. The latter were driven from their positions after a desperate fight. At 5 o'clock last evening the two armies were still engaged. An aid-de-camp to King Milan was wounded during the fight. Three other Serbian officers were killed and six wounded. A despatch from Belgrade, dated midnight, says it is believed the fighting is still going on by moonlight. The report of the capture of Sofia is untrue.

ST. PETERSBURG, November 21.—The Journal de St. Petersburg, in an editorial, to-day, says: Serbia has no reason to continue the campaign, now that Prince Alexander has announced that he will evacuate Eastern Roumelia. If King Milan persists in going to Sofia it will cost him more than he foresees. The Powers, as the speech of Emperor William at the opening of the Reichstag on Tuesday indicated, have a right to secure respect for the treaties relating to the Balkan States.

Wants Her Own.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 21.—Martha L. Hitchcock instituted suit to-day against John A. Stanley and John H. Wise, executors of the estate of Charles M. Hitchcock, deceased, her husband, to recover rents accruing from the Brooklyn Hotel property, on Bush Street between Montgomery and Kearny Streets, since 1892, which aggregate about $200,000. She claims that this is her separate estate, and also asks that the executors be ordered to execute a deed of the property to her.

Mexican Matters.

LIMA, via Galveston, November 21.—Further details of the engagement at Janja prove that it resulted in a complete triumph for the government forces. Five hundred of General Gaceras' troops were taken prisoners, while the government loss was slight. Janja is occupied by the expeditionary force. The rebels destroyed the bridge at Huapampa, over which they retreated.

Will Soon be Restored.

LONDON, November 21.—The Exchange Telegraph Company has a dispatch from Paris stating that the French government has resolved to terminate the Madagascar expedition. Negotiations have been commenced with the Hovas and it is expected peace will soon be restored.

Bad for the Saloons.

MONTREAL, November 21.—The entire adult population at St. Martha Village to-day voluntarily assembled in church and pledged themselves to abstain from alcoholic beverages for a space of one month. The village has a population of 2,000 persons.

All On Time.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 21.—Superintendent Fillmore, of the Southern Pacific Company, reports that all the damage by the washouts on the Southern Pacific Railroad has been repaired to-day, and all trains are now moving on time.

What is a Corpuscule?

One of the smallest things on earth. It is a little disc, oval in shape, and not less than three-thousandth part of an inch in length. The corpuscules give to the blood its bright red color. This color they owe to the iron that is in them. Without iron your blood would be so pale and thin as to be of no account. Iron enriches it and gives you vitality. The only reliable preparation of iron for medicinal purposes is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which does wonders for the ailing and debilitated. Buy this valuable tonic of your druggist.

THE TRIPLE TIE.

The Sixth Game of the Billiard Tournament.

RESULTS IN A VERY NEAT TIE.

The Contest to be Settled on Tuesday in a Game Each for Eight Hundred Points.

The Sixth Game.

CHICAGO, November 21.—Schaefer and Slosson played the sixth game of the Billiard tournament to-night. The situation of affairs was peculiar. Slosson and Vignaux had each won two games and Schaefer one game. A victory for Slosson would make him richer by $5,000, while his defeat would make a triple tie. There was a large amount of money bet. Schaefer was the favorite, the odds early in the day being $100 to $70 in his favor, but in the afternoon the rate became nearly even. Just before the game, however, Schaefer's friends offered $100 to $30 and it was freely taken. Referee McCreey announced the situation of affairs and stated that no provision had been made in the event of a tie for continuing the tournament, but it would be played off and no division of the money would be made.

At 8:14 the two players banked for lead, and Schaefer won by a hair. He counted from the lay-off and gathered the balls, but missed the second shot, leaving the cue ball in a position. The balls were left in line, but by banking to the opposite cushion, Slosson counted and held them well together. He played them well for a run of 63, and had a good position at the rail when he failed to get the balls out of the rack on the second shot. Schaefer found a good opening, but spoiled it on a draw to the cushion. Slosson picked off 17 and missed a one-cushion shot across the table. Schaefer had an opportunity in the ninth inning to put in a good run, but his position play was very poor and he stopped at 17. Slosson played in the seventh inning for a run of 27, and he, too, showed considerable nervousness. Schaefer's miss of an easy one-cushion shot in the eighth left a set-up, and Slosson now set to work in good shape once more and at 44 stopped on a delicate one-cushion effort. This time the balls were left grouped for Schaefer, who quickly rattled up 34, only to fail on an easy short draw for position. Leaving the usual set-up. At the end of the seventh inning the call was: Slosson 121, Schaefer 58. Slosson increased his lead with a run of 33 in the ninth, missing a delicate kick back from the cushion. Schaefer profited by the fine set-up by making his best run thus far. The balls lined up in three consecutive times, but he counted with as easy a massé shot. He kept on until he had made a very pretty run of 74, when he came to grief in a very easy draw, and left the balls in a heap. The call was—Slosson 193, Schaefer 132. Slosson then passed to his third string, with a run of 23. Schaefer, in his eleventh inning, missed a plain two-cushion shot, and again left the balls well for Slosson, who, at 23, missed a hard across-the-table kick-shot in which he had to use the bridge. Schaefer responded with 25, missing an easy draw shot in an unaccountable manner. The balls were left at the head rail as well as Slosson could have placed them with his fingers, but he did not handle them very well and stopped at 23, before having spread the balls badly. This seemed to give Schaefer courage, for he settled down to business and played a magnificent run of 107, stopping on a tough left-hand run. Slosson was 235. Slosson was perceptibly shaken by Schaefer's rush of speed, and played his next two innings very poorly. Schaefer, in the fifteenth, made a neat run of 42, and now was squarely ahead for the first time—307 to 293. A square set-up gave Slosson a run of 27 in the seventeenth, and he again was in front—333 to 308. But this was not to be shaken off. He dashed in for another big run in the eighteenth inning, and never stopped until he had made 114 and failed on a massé shot; score—Schaefer 442, Slosson 333. Slosson now peeled off his broadcloth, but it did him no good. He played a very poor run of 27, in which he had plenty of opportunities. Schaefer rapidly scored a run of 47 in his twentieth, stopping on a line break, in which he could neither bank or massé, but tried a kiss follow. Again in the twentieth, Slosson found the balls well bunched for him, but he staggered along with only 12, and when he missed a perfectly easy draw, the balls were set up for Schaefer, who ran forty and his score was 535 to Slosson's 390. In the 23d inning, Schaefer tried a hard around-the-table shot, and got beaten out of the count by a kiss, and left Slosson a fine set-up. The Chicago boy accepted this lucky interposition thankfully, and once more began to play billiard. A run of 54 in the 23d inning was very well played until he succumbed to a succession of tough breaks, though these were the result largely of his faulty position play. Score—Schaefer 538, Slosson 446. Schaefer, in the 24th, pilled up 42, missing a very hard left hand draw. Slosson followed with twenty and Schaefer with ten. Both were anxious and flustered. Slosson's run of 24 in the twenty-fifth inning, ended with a freeze and he failed to make the lay-off stroke. He got another opening in the twenty-sixth but stopped at 2 and in the twenty-seventh Schaefer made the necessary 9 and the tournament ended in a triple tie.

Schaefer, black—1, 2, 0, 1, 1, 0, 2, 2, 74, 0, 36, 107, 0, 42, 1, 0, 114, 0, 73, 40, 2, 1, 42, 10, 1, 9. Average 22, 6-27, High run 107, 114.

Slosson, white—63, 17, 0, 13, 0, 37, 44, 33, 3, 36, 28, 1, 7, 19, 27, 15, 27, 12, 20, 4, 20, 2, 4, 2. Total 492. Average 18, 25-23, High run 63.

Arrangements for playing off the tie cannot be made to-night, but it is thought that Battery D can be fitted up with seats in amphitheatrical form and the tournament played to an end, commencing Tuesday night, with one game each of 800 points.

GIDDY KATE.

Tells What She Thinks About the Mormons.

NEW YORK, November 20.—Miss Kate Field, to-night, entertained a large audience at Chickering Hall two and a half hours with a lecture upon "The Vice and Treason of Mormonism." By way of introduction the speaker said: Although possessing average intelligence, until a year ago she knew nothing about Mormonism. Accident led her to visit Utah, and she became so much interested in the subject that she remained several months. The religion of Mormonism sprung into life in 1830; the so-called revelations, however, were not given to the world until 1852. John Taylor, President of the Mormon Church to-day, and its chief apostle, calls himself the "mouth-piece of the Almighty." A more fanatical paper than the so-called revelation by Smith never existed. One of its sections declared that if a man was married to a woman in accordance with the laws of the church, he was at liberty to commit all kinds of blasphemy and crime except the shedding of innocent blood. The Gentiles were not of innocent blood, and could therefore be put out of the way without sin whenever occasion required. Blood atonement was practiced to the extent it was during palmy days of Brigham Young. "If it had not been for Vermont," continued Miss Field, "there never would have been such a thing as Mormonism. Brigham Young, Joseph Smith and Heber C. Kimball, all bright and shining lights in the Mormon Church, and indeed its very founders, were all born in Vermont. It seems just, therefore, that Senator Edmunds who framed the recent law against polygamy, should have been born in that State also. It is the religious nature of woman that is appealed to and outraged in Mormonism. She is taught that her husband is her god. The majority of Mormon women are more unreasonable than sensitive. Heber C. Kimball used to call his wives his cows. The Edmunds bill has served to make polygamous elders weary. They no longer marry wives in the Endowment House. The ceremony is performed in kitchens, back yards, or any secluded spot. Think of it! Utah an Empire State under the same flag. We should be ashamed of ourselves, that is those who vote (applause). Brigham Young used to tell his wives that they must not expect him to love them. They should consider it a sufficient honor to bear children to a Saint. The Mormon theory in regard to women seemed to be that they are not worthy of damnation. Miss Field showed she found it impossible for her to believe anything she heard unless proven. Mormon women would lie about their religion without a blush. The divorce laws were formerly very loose in Utah. Brigham Young used to charge his wives $10 for every divorce granted. The speaker called attention to the fact of John T. Caine, Utah's Representative in Congress, received $2,500 more salary each year than Eli H. Murray, Governor of the Territory. The Mormons teach that Joseph Smith will be the first one of the faithful to rise from the grave on resurrection-day. There are graves in the Mormon cemeteries, first, that of all the unmarried men and women. They are, as it were, celestial bootbunks to the elders. The second is that of the monogamists, and the third that of polygamists, who alone see Christ. Mormonism, therefore, places a premium on vice. The Mormons have no white neither Republicans nor Democrats among them. They hold millions of dollars worth of property, upon which they pay no taxes. The Temple of St. George in the southern part of Utah, cost $800,000. The Temple at Logan, $300,000, while upon the new Temple at Salt Lake $2,000,000 has already been expended. The latter will probably not be finished for thirty years to come, even if the subscriptions should continue to pour into the Treasury of the Mormon Church.

THE ENGLISH twenty-four-hour tricycle record is now 233½ miles, made by J. H. Adams.

H. J. SEARS, an erstwhile bike rider of Ogden, started for New Zealand last week. He goes to fulfill a mission.

SAID a small boy, "Hi, Jimmy, look'e the new patent, wat ain't the kind where ye go round with your feet!"

T. R. MARRIOT recently rode a tricycle from Lands End to John O Groats, 833 miles, in 6 days, 16 hours and 22 minutes, beating the best record 1 day and 14 hours.

THE STATISTICAL fiend has been at it again, and calculated that a man may ride a mile on bicycle, over an ordinary road, with the same muscular exertion required to walk one-sixth of the distance.

Fred Russ Cook amuses his club mates, evenings, telling them of his trip east, of his generous treatment received from San Francisco to Boston, how the Salt Lake, Denver and St. Louis wheelmen gave him the right hand of fellowship, and of his treatment at Springfield, for which the Bay City wheelmen thank the numerous clubs who so freely entertained their fellow member.—S. Electric Treatment.

No. 112 W. South Temple Street, opposite Valley House, next to Sandberg's Furniture Store.

This treatment is particularly useful in Malarial Diseases, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Colds, Coughs, Neuritis, Torpid Liver, Feeble Circulation, Paralysis, Gleet, Gonorrhea, Syphilis, Nervous Debility, and sure cure for Chills and Fever. It is also a luxury. Give it a trial. For invalids it has the effect of gentle and stimulating exercise, while with a healthy body (a rarity these times) it acts as the most vitalizing of tonics. Besides this it is, especially in our climate, the most delicious luxury human ingenuity ever devised.

Ladies who have not tried it can have no conception of the enhancement of their personal charms consequent upon a frequent treatment. It is destined to prove a great boon to ladies, inasmuch as they have more leisure for such purposes, and more generally lead an indoor and sedentary life, and thus suffer the ill results from an impaired circulation, which the treatment will remedy, by securing a complete circulation and bringing the blood to the surface, thus unloading it of a burden of impurities, and sending it on its way rejoicing.
